District Defend® proof-of-concept project yields exciting results

We are extremely excited to announce that, after two years in development, TriCIS have successfully installed it's first District Defend proof of concept for a very 'special' customer here in the UK,

District Defend® is a secure mobility solution designed to meet the data security challenges faced by military leaders, staff and administrators whilst traversing through a variety of environments. It is already in use by our counterparts in the US Defence/Government. By partnering with, Booz Allen Hamilton, TriCIS are now the first and only company in the UK with the ability to deliver this capability.

TriCIS Defence Advisor, Ann-Marie Warner-Read says, "It's been a long journey but the hard work, perseverance of the team and the willingness of our customer to be innovative and think outside of the box has reached it's next crucial point. Secure mobility is key and COVID-19 has bought this topic and that of Zero-Trust to the forefront of Defence and Governments mind therefore this proof of concept is timely".

We are looking forward to delivering District Defend® to more UK based customers throughout 2021.
